DO YOU NEED HELP WITH CARTONIZATION?

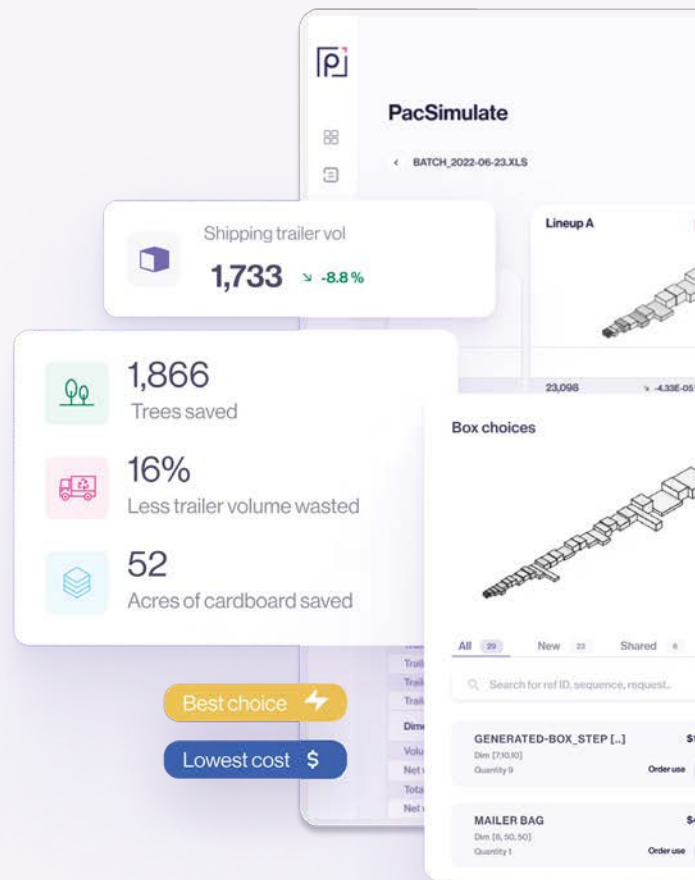

Paccurate

Packaging should be reactive to fulfillment.

Cartonization determines how every order should be packed. But without the right mix of boxes or mailers in place, even the best packing decisions fall short.

Identifying a packaging lineup can't be a best guess. As shipping and material costs continue to rise, operators need the right size boxes and mailers based on order data and SKU profiles. Without that foundation, even optimized packing logic leads to wasted space, higher costs, and inconsistent results.

Paccurate's simulation tool analyzes thousands of shipments to determine the best mix of box and mailer sizes to support smarter packing decisions in your fulfillment centers and stores. It is the only technology of its kind that optimizes directly for costs.

Increase margins on parcel shipments

Save up to 15% on shipping costs just from optimizing your box suite.

Improve customer experience

Deliver a better unboxing experience for your customers.

Ship Sustainably

Reduce Scope 3 emissions from corrugate, void fill, and trucks on the road.

Paccurate allows you to simulate changes to your packaging lineup and measure the impact to your KPIs. It continually identifies the cost-optimal mix of boxes or mailers to keep in stock and tells you exactly how your shipping costs will be affected before implementation.

Every order, perfectly packed.

With a suite of products and tools that work together, you get full control over packing decisions without disrupting your existing systems or workflows.
